

Dear Bright Beginnings NYC Parents,

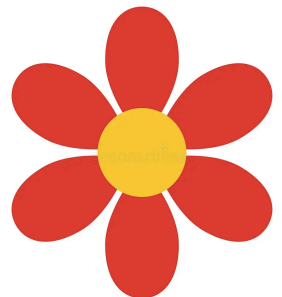

Winter is flying by here at Bright Beginnings! The kiddos absolutely loved exploring the snowy landscape all around us on our walks and were very surprised to see that the leaves haven't returned to the trees yet (we're all ready to welcome spring with open arms!). Before we march into March, let's reflect on a few of our favorite moments from February.

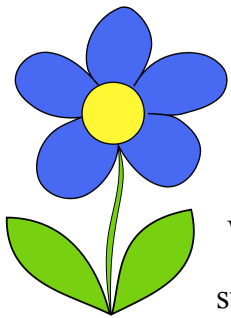

Preschool

The Friends have had a blast learning about their favorite super pals this month! To kick off our extra strength learning, the Big Friends took to the skies during our Superman Quick Change game. Following that, the Friends explored our favorite cartoon heroes with the Powerpuff Girls and mixed up a magic potion of sugar, spice, and everything nice (with a dash of chemical X of course)! The Big Friends also learned about the real life hero Malala Yousafzai by drawing their own classroom where everyone was invited to learn (even our friend Bluey)! To finish our high flying adventures, the Friends took a look at how dogs can be heroes and rescued letters from a shaving cream avalanche. Going along with our super studies, the Big Friends moved through the alphabet with the uppercase and lowercase letters K, L and M! A few of our favorite linguistic moments from this month included our K is for Keyboard letter match, exploring leaves with a magnifying glass for letter L, and making mondo moon rocks for letter M. Wonderful work Big Friends!

The Little Friends had just as much action-packed fun in February! To begin our larger-than-life learning, the Friends took a closer look at our favorite comic book heroes and caught a few dastardly letters using our paper plate Wonder Woman lassos. Next, the Friends came to the rescue during our PJ mask studies and saved our classroom toy people during our Owlette's Quick Save Race! After that, the Friends took a trip through history and learned more about Martin Luther King Jr. and what made him a hero with our Hero Helping Hands craft. To wrap up the month, the Friends went on a wild adventure learning about animal superheroes and had a blast making a garden and keeping it safe just like a spider. Tying into our fast-paced discoveries, the Little Friends also covered the letters K, L, and M! Some of our letter highlights from this month included collecting number leaves like a hungry Koala, rescuing our Lego pals from ice during our L is for Lego Ice Evacuation game, and movin' and groovin' while jamming to our favorite songs during our M is for Music instrument party! Great job Little Friends!

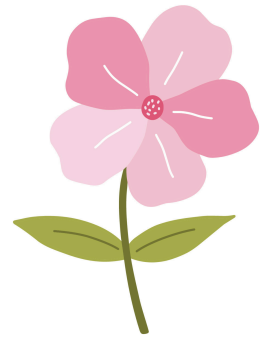

We're excited to introduce our theme for March: Fairytales! The Friends have been super interested in the classic books displayed in our library and have been seen flying with dragons at the playground (the kinds who love tacos of course!). All through March, the kiddos will be learning more about where princes and princesses live, mythical creatures, and will even get a chance to write their own fairytale. We're ready for an epic adventure come March!

After-School

Our After-Schoolers had a lovely February filled with sweets and other Valentine's Day treats! The kiddos were eager to share their Valentine haul with the group and even got to make their own. Other activities that stood out this month included printing with chalk, getting super during our Incredible's yoga, and crafting our own paper plate pizzas. We also got to make some candy hearts dance with baking soda and vinegar and played a high energy game of hopscotch. Way to go After-School!

Housekeeping

There is only one important date to keep in mind for March.
Bright Beginnings NYC will be closed for both programs on Friday, March 8th for Staff Development Day. We will reopen on Monday, March 11th with a regular schedule.

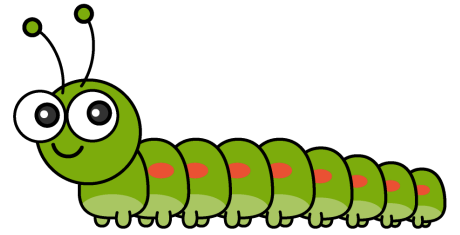

Next, we have plenty of space open for our Fun Friday Parent Readers! If you would like to read to the kiddos, please let us know at the door and we'll add your name to the list. Happy reading 😊.

Finally, we are still on the search for the perfect fit for our teaching team. We will be having a few new faces pop into the classroom as we move through the process of finding the right candidate. Please refer to the previous e-mails sent regarding our teacher hiring process for more information. As always, we will keep you updated with any new details we receive regarding our teaching teams as they arise.

We look forward to growing our wonderful Bright Beginnings family and for what the future has in store!
